

I listen to K-LOVE radio station on 88.9 FM in Oklahoma City.

This is only station I know of in my area that plays commercial-free contemporary Christian music.

If this station (K-LOVE) was displaced by an LPFM broadcaster, there would be a negative impact on my community. K-LOVE provides encouraging, positive messages, as opposed to most other stations that allow all kinds of music and offensive language.

K-LOVE is the only station that I consider "safe" for my 3 & 9 year olds to listen to. There is nothing negative on this station; it is very motivating music. K-LOVE encourages me as a parent, and often has positive messages regarding marriage and family. There is no other station that I know of here in Oklahoma City that even comes close to this.

It is in the best interest of the public to continue broadcasting K-LOVE here in Oklahoma City, as well as nationwide. It is commercial free programming, so they are not dictated by advertising or solicitation that is sometimes offensive. There are not very many stations who are positive, encouraging, and moral. Most stations are very suggestive in their music and/or advertising. K-LOVE is in no way immoral or offensive.
